KM 166. Very Fine, Extremely Rare. Note: This coin is one of the earliest issues in the name of the Queen Victoria struck by any princely state. The date VS 1914/1858 AD is very important, this was the year in which the Great Indian Revolt saw its slow extinguishing and many princely state kings came out in open support of the British government. Bharatpur was one of the first to show these tendencies - it is likely that coins with the Queen's effigy were struck immediately after the 'Queen's Proclamation' issued on 1 November 1858 which effectively ended the rule of the East India Company and made the Queen the sovereign head of state of India. The curious title "Sikka-i-Zul Iqtidar Angrezi Sarkar" is suggestive of the role played by the Maharaja by siding with the British during the Revolt. Click on the price to view the lot on the website.

The mint name is the only legend on this coin. There is no direct evidence on the coin as to when it was struck, or under whose authority. Sharifganj has not been located so far, and may well be a temporary name given to an existing town by Sharaf Muhammad Khan, or by his son Wazir, in honour of his father.
